

Multi-sensory approaches:
Letter cards, picture prompts, rhymes, sound talk, air writing, sand trays, magnetic letter and tracing.

Diverse texts and storybooks to support children with decoding and fluency

Embed phonics in songs, play, and storytelling

Sound walls, mats and letter displays

Celebrating all successes - Praise effort, not just accuracy!

Lots of repetition and revisiting previous learning.

Visual and verbal prompts.

Creating an Inclusive Phonics Classroom

Encourage children to take pride in their voices and how they sound words

Breaking learning down into small steps.

Modelling – both adult and pupils.

Objects and photos
to build meaning.

Use visual cues, gestures, and clear routines so every child knows what to expect.

Encourage families to talk, read, and play sound games at home to further consolidate children's learning.
